

made with the Bhartiya Kamgar Sena (respondent No. 3) which represented a very large majority of the workmen of the company. It is a significant fact that the bonafides of that union have not been challenged before us. There is therefore no reason why the Tribunal's finding that the settlement is just and fair should not be accepted."

13. Though the union represented all the workmen and the name of the petitioner also found place in the list of workmen, due to his absence, the union did not press the claim of the petitioner. However, both the respondent management and the union consciously agreed that the petitioner could make his claim on his return. Hence, as per the respondent's own admission, the petitioner is entitled to get the benefit as per the said settlement Ex.P4 and the rights of the petitioner stood preserved even under the terms of the settlement, which formed part of the award dated 27-9-2001. Furthermore the majority of workers accepted the settlement under Ex.P4. The ratio laid down in the case of TATA Engineering and Locomotive Company Limited Vs. Workmen (1981 II LLJ 429), Johnson and Johnson Limited Vs. Maharashtra General Kamgar Union and Others and Herbertsons Limited Vs. The Workmen of Herbertsons Limited (1988 LAB I.C. 162) wherein it was held that it must be presumed to be fair and just and not liable to be ignored merely because a small number of workers were not parties to it. Which are very much squarely applicable to this case. The argument of the learned counsel for the petitioners questioning the constitution of the union and mere technicality of non-compliance of rule 58(4) of Central Industrial Rules, 1957 will not be helpful at this stage, because once for all the dispute was settled by the majority workmen and received the compensation from the management. Therefore, the relief of the petitioner mentioned in the above reference need not be discussed in length. In these circumstances, it will be appropriate to pass an order directing the respondent to pay some monetary compensation to the petitioner on par with other workmen.

14. Considering the facts and circumstances of the case and service, this court comes to the conclusion that the petitioner is not entitled to get the reinstatement with back wages and other benefits. However, based on the settlement Ex.P4. the respondent is hereby directed to pay a sum of ₹ 1,40,000 to the petitioner towards monetary benefit. Accordingly, this point is answered.
